2. How super works

Super is an important long-term way to save for your retirement and is, in part, compulsory. There are tax concessions provided by the Australian Government to help you save more money in your super. However, there are limits to how much you and your employer can contribute under the tax concessions. There are also limits and rules about when you can access your super. When you reach age 60, withdrawals from your super will generally be tax-free. Refer to part 7 of this document and the Additional Information Guide for more information on how super is taxed.

Contributing to your super

Different types of contributions can be made to your super including the super guarantee contributions made by your employer, any voluntary personal contributions you make, and if you are eligible, the Australian Government will also co-contribute to your super.

If you are an employee, your employer usually must make super guarantee contributions to your super. Currently, this is 9.5% of your 'ordinary time earnings'.

Contributions can also be made through salary sacrifice (by asking your employer to deduct extra money and contribute into super before tax is taken out), by making your own personal contributions (for example if you are self-employed), by contributions made by your spouse on your behalf, or by directing personal voluntary savings into your super.

Choosing your own super

Generally, you can choose which super fund your super guarantee contributions are paid into by your employer. If you do not have a choice or you do not tell your employer which super fund to pay your super guarantee contributions into, they will be directed into a super fund chosen by your employer.

Consolidating your super

You can take Allan Gray Superannuation from job to job and you can consolidate your current super account and any other existing super accounts into Allan Gray Superannuation to avoid having multiple super funds and fees. Before doing so, please consider any potential loss of existing insurance or other benefits you may have with your existing super fund.

Accessing your super

As super is designed to help you save for retirement, there are limits and rules about when you can access your super, usually when reach your preservation age (between 55 and 60, depending on your date of birth) and have permanently retired from the workforce. There are limited circumstances when early access to your super may be available if you meet a "condition of release", for example, compassionate grounds, severe financial hardship, or permanent incapacity for work or through the First Home Super Saver Scheme, if eligible.

Pension

Once you meet certain criteria you can start a pension by opening:

- a Transition to Retirement Pension Account, when you reach your preservation age and remain in employment, or
- a Pension Account, when you retire permanently or reach age 65.

Further details about Pension Accounts can be found in Part 2 of the Additional Information Guide. A minimum amount of $20,000.00 is required to start a pension, which can be transferred from your Super Account or other sources. The eligibility criteria for each Pension Account can be found in the Additional Information Guide.

You can choose your regular pension payment within the prescribed limits set by the Australian Government. Consult your adviser or go to ato.gov.au/super for more information.

You may make a lump sum withdrawal, however, a lump sum withdrawal made from a Transition to Retirement Pension Account can only be made:

- if your account has an unrestricted non-preserved component and your lump sum withdrawal does not exceed this amount, or

- if you satisfy a “condition of release” with a “nil” cash restriction, or
- to give effect to a payment split under family law.

More information You should read the important information about how super works before making a decision. Go to Part 2 in the Additional Information Guide and refer to ASIC’s MoneySmart website at moneysmart.gov.au. Material about how super works may change between the time you read this PDS and the day when you acquire the product.

6. Fees and costs

Consumer advisory warning:

Did you know?

Small differences in both investment performance and fees and costs can have a substantial impact on your long term returns.

For example, total annual fees and costs of 2% of your account balance rather than 1% could reduce your final return by up to 20% over a 30-year period (for example, reduce it from $100,000 to $80,000).

You should consider whether features such as superior investment performance or the provision of better member services justify higher fees and costs.

You or your employer, as applicable, may be able to negotiate to pay lower fees.² Ask the fund or your financial adviser.

To find out more

If you would like to find out more, or see the impact of the fees based on your own circumstances, the Australian Securities and Investments Commission (ASIC) website (www.moneysmart.gov.au) has a superannuation fee calculator to help you check out different fee options.

² This disclosure is prescribed by law. The Fund does not negotiate fees.

7. How super is taxed

This section provides a summary of the significant tax information relating to superannuation. It is based on the laws that apply at the date this PDS is issued and changes in the law or its interpretation may affect the tax consequences of investing in Allan Gray Superannuation and Allan Gray Retirement. For professional advice tailored to your personal circumstances you should consult a tax adviser.

Super is taxed at three stages, contributions, earnings and withdrawals and the tax is paid directly to the Australian Taxation Office (ATO).

TFN Information

Warning: While it is not compulsory, don't forget to provide your tax file number (TFN) so you can benefit from the lower tax rates applied to superannuation contributions. Without your TFN, a higher tax rate will also be applied when it's time to access your super. Without your TFN personal contributions cannot be accepted by super funds.

Tax on contributions

Concessional contributions such as superannuation guarantee (SG) contributions and salary sacrifice, up to the concessional contribution cap are generally taxed at the concessional rate.

Non-Concessional contributions such as contributions made from after-tax income, up to the non-concessional contribution cap, are not taxed.

What happens if you exceed the contribution caps?

Warning: There are significant tax implications if you exceed the caps during a financial year. For more information on contributions, contribution caps and applicable taxes, please refer to part 7 of the Additional Information Guide or go to ato.gov.au/super.

Tax on super investment earnings

Generally, investment earnings within your Super and Transition to Retirement Accounts will be taxed at a maximum of 15%. Pension Accounts are exempted from tax.

Tax on withdrawals

Withdrawal benefits may be taxed if you are aged less than 60. The tax will be deducted from your withdrawal benefit. If you are aged 60 or over, no tax will apply to your withdrawal benefit, unless you are a temporary resident.

Tax on death benefits

Lump sum death benefits paid to dependants for tax purposes are fully tax free.

The tax treatment for lump sum benefits paid to non-dependants for tax purposes is different. No tax is payable in respect of any tax-free component while any taxable component will be taxed at rates between 15% to 30%, plus any applicable levies.

More Information - You should read the important information about how super is taxed before making a decision. Refer to Part 7 of the Additional Information Guide or ato.gov.au/super. 8. Insurance in your super

Types of cover

You can access insurance cover through Allan Gray Superannuation to help protect your family's financial security against the unexpected. Both Group Life (default cover and voluntary cover) and Retail insurance cover are available in Allan Gray Superannuation. Retail insurance terms are specific to the retail insurer's product disclosure statement. Speak to your financial adviser to obtain a copy of an insurer's product disclosure statement or to apply for Retail insurance cover.

Choose from a range of optional insurance covers including Death, and Total Permanent Disablement (TPD) and Salary Continuance:

- Death insurance provides a lump sum benefit in the event of death, or if you are diagnosed with a Terminal Illness,
- TPD Insurance provides a lump sum benefit if you suffer a Total and Permanent Disablement, and
- Salary Continuance pays a set percentage of your monthly income for a pre-defined length of time in the event that you suffer Total Disability as a result of illness or injury.

Default Cover when you join

Provided you meet eligibility conditions, when you sign up to Allan Gray Superannuation and an initial contribution or rollover from another superannuation fund is received for you, you will receive Default Death and TPD, and Salary Continuance cover without any medical underwriting. Default cover commences on the date that the first contribution or rollover is received. This cover can be reduced or cancelled. If eligible you will automatically receive Default Cover, and the value of the default sum insured and cost of Default Cover will depend on your age, your occupation and your gender. As you age the amount of insurance cover provided to you and the cost of insurance changes. Please refer to the Insurance Guide for information on when your default cover will commence. ¹ The table on the next page explains the level of cover and costs for both Default Cover.

Warning:

Opting-Out of Default Insurance Cover: When you join Allan Gray Superannuation unless you decline to acquire or cancel the Default Cover, the cost of Default Insurance Cover will be deducted from your Account monthly in arrears. You have 28 days from acceptance of the application to opt-out of Default Cover before insurance premiums are deducted from your Allan Gray Superannuation Account. This is known as the cooling off period. After this period no insurance premium refund will be available.

Opting-In to Default Insurance Cover: From 1 July 2019, if no contributions or rollovers are made to your Allan Gray Superannuation Account for any continuous period of 16 months or more, your Account becomes 'inactive' by law and the Trustee is required to cancel your Default Insurance Cover, and stop deducting insurance premiums from your Account, unless you opt-in to continue to receive that cover. We will write to you if your Allan Gray Superannuation Account becomes inactive in this way, to remind you that your Default Cover will cease if you do not opt-in.
