ALLAN GRAY
CONTRARIAN INVESTING

Allan Gray Australia Equity Fund

At Allan Gray, our investment philosophy is simple – we take a contrarian approach, apply it consistently and invest for the long term. This is how we've been investing in Australia for the past 15 years and how the broader group has been investing globally for over 50 years. We bring this established time-tested investment philosophy to you through the Allan Gray Australia Equity Fund.

Why choose the Allan Gray Australia Equity Fund?

To benefit from a time-tested, contrarian investment approach

As contrarian investors we go against current market trends, buying an investment when we believe it's undervalued in a less optimistic environment with the intention to sell it when the market recognises the share's potential and it reprices. By investing for the long term, we look past the short-term market noise and wait patiently for a stock's value to improve.

We believe bottom-up research is key to finding true value. We do not rely on macro forecasting or third parties. Rather, our team of analysts undertakes its own rigorous research into each individual company to find value.

To increase outperformance potential by investing differently

If you invest in the same shares as the majority of investors at the same time, it is by definition almost impossible to outperform the market. We look to buy shares when others are selling, and sell when others are buying. This gives us an edge, as we can face less competition and pay a lower price for shares that are out of favour with the broader investment community.

To improve the opportunity of upside

Taking a contrarian approach can improve your chance of paying a lower price and therefore achieving a better-than-average return. By looking in unpopular areas of the market, we may find value, where excessive negative investor sentiment has created the opportunity to buy shares at a good price.

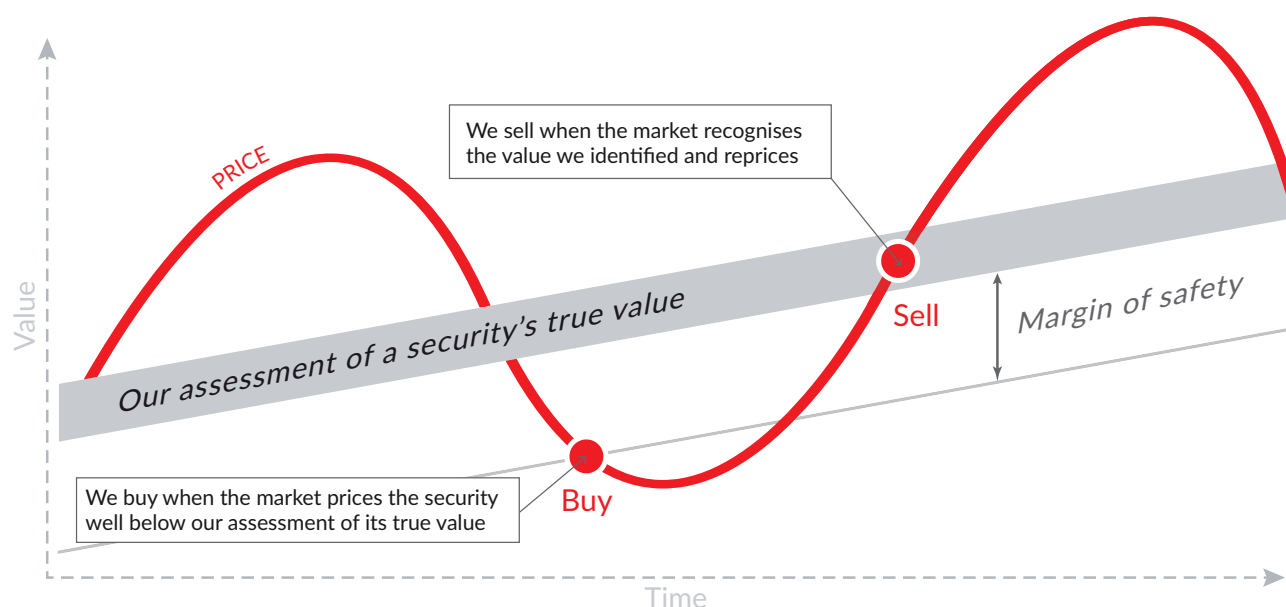

Results don't have to be exceptional for the Equity Fund's investors to do well. For instance, when a stock is priced for 'very bad' expectations and the outcome is only 'quite bad', the share price can rise considerably. The outcome just has to be better than expected.

To reduce the risk of permanent loss of capital

Conversely, when a stock is priced for 'fantastic expectations' and the outcome is only 'quite good' the share price can fall considerably.

Speculative overoptimism can drive share prices way above fair value, increasing the risk of paying inflated prices and potential permanent loss of capital. By investing independently of popular market sentiment, a contrarian approach can potentially help investors reduce the risk of overpaying.

Investment philosophy

A choice of fee structures

With the Equity Fund, you can choose from two unit classes, each with its own fee structure: Class A, with a base fee and performance fee, and Class B, with no base fee but a higher performance fee based on the returns you experience.

How can you use the Fund?

As the core of an Australian equities portfolio

With the Allan Gray Australia Equity Fund, you benefit from having our analyst team consistently research and monitor the stocks and make investment decisions on your behalf.

As a way to diversify an Australian equities portfolio

Being contrarian, our Funds are unlike those of our peers, so investors need to be comfortable holding an investment that looks and performs differently from the others in your portfolio. Not only does being contrarian bring the opportunity for outperformance, but because we choose shares that are often overlooked or discarded by other investors, the Fund can be an effective way to diversify and complement other funds in a portfolio.

For investors who want to invest for the long term

In a competitive market it is difficult to have an edge. Focusing on the long term and being patient is one of the few advantages that we believe will endure. Not many investors can be patient and wait for value to emerge, as they respond to pressure to generate 'instant' performance. Investors who share our long-term philosophy could be rewarded, as we look past the short-term noise and wait patiently for the value in our stocks to be recognised by the market.

All investments carry risk and past performance is not necessarily an indicator of future performance. More information regarding the risks of investing is available on our website at allangray.com.au
